An administrative model for optimizing flow has four parts (as illustrated below):
1. A bed management process,
2. Real-time demand-capacity processes and measures,
3. An early warning and response system, and
4. Mid- to long-range forecasting.

Figure 8.1: An Administrative System for Flow